No Objective Just Trade

There is no final objective of your performance. You seek only to perform your trade. This is your chosen field and occupation, you seek no other performance or objective. To do so means that you have not chosen to remain in your trade or to keep it straight. Always be straight in your trade. Know your trade.

No Team Just Workspace

The team is not to be its own entity. As each individual becomes an element of a team, so too does each team become an element of the workspace. The Tradesman is to take into himself the knowledge and skills of his trade. The workspace takes into itself the knowledge and skills of the team. To unite and perform together as a whole is the purpose of a team.

Art is Your Craft

As your trade is the objective of performance, quality is the art of your trade. To seek higher quality in a completed work is preferable over quantity or profit. Always produce the highest possible quality in a completed work. This ultimately is your trade.

Final Product Is Objective Of Trade

The work to be completed is the objective of your trade. It is not the process, team or workspace. None of those things are an end unto themselves. It is the work to be completed that you seek in the performance of any trade.

Process, Team, Workspace Mean Nothing Without Production

Without a completed work, your team, process or workspace serves no purpose. No matter the organization, planning or workflow; if the work is not completed, you have not performed your trade.

Work For Art

You perform a trade for the work completed. To improve your performance is to improve the quality of your work. You do not complete this work for an employer, salary or your own fame and status. The work is why you perform your trade and you do so for no other meaning.

Team is Your Self

You are your team and so is every other member. Each of you become the team as you work more in unison. At this point anyone of you can perform the trade of the other. Any loss of one individual diminishes yourself by an equal value.

Self is Your Team

The Team is yourself and so is every other member. The Team has become yourself as you work more in unison. At this point anyone of you can perform the trade of the other. Loss of yourself diminishes the team by an equal value.

Team and Self is the Workflow

The Tradesman and his team become the workflow as they work more in unison. What is seen by outside observer is the completion of work and not individual components of a team or workspace. The movements and process of the individual is lost in the movements and action of the team and workspace. Any hinderance to the workflow becomes a hinderance to self and team.

Workflow is the Team and Self

The workflow becomes the Tradesman and his team as they work more in unison. What is seen by outside observer is the completion of work and not that of a workflow. The movements and action of the team and workspace is lost in the movements and process of the workflow. Any hinderance to self and team becomes a hinderance to the workflow.
